

FOR INFORMATION OF PASSING OUT M.A. STUDENTS

Institute for Development and Communication (IDC) has opening for three internship for passing out M.A. Economics students. The selected students will write a small (40 to 50 pages) internship project report under the supervision of a senior researcher of IDC. The interns will not be paid any salary for the period of the internship. However, they will get a proper certificate of having successfully completed it. The period of internship will be two months (October and November) and the interns will not have to sit in the IDC on a regular basis; they can consult the supervisor on phone, and also personally, if needed. They will be assigned themes for internship project that will be based on secondary data.

Only local (Chandigarh area) students will be accepted for these internships and selection will be on first come first served basis.

Interested students can contact the undersigned.
